

Grégoire de Kalbermatten was born in Lausanne and educated in Geneva and at the Johns Hopkins University in Bologna and Baltimore. He has been active in international affairs for over twenty years and has led missions and traveled in over seventy countries. He maintains a keen interest in world cultures and global affairs, while contributing to seminars and lecturing in the fields of political philosophy and spirituality.

The Legend of Dagad Trikon is a work of imaginative genius, an extraordinary synthesis of disparate mythologies into a seamless whole. This gripping and compelling saga unveils a grand quest of self-discovery that kept seekers of spiritual truth in the East and West equally busy for many millennia. Meet a range of unforgettable characters, Lancelot of the Lake and Guinevere in their present-day incarnations, and the Divine Mother in a sari shop.

The Legend of Dagad Trikon

THE LEGEND OF
Dagad Trikon

Grégoire de Kalbermatten

Grégoire de Kalbermatten

When Jonathan O’Lochan, Counselor at the U.S. embassy in Cairo first saw the small monkey perched on a branch of a nearby acacia tree, he thought that the cute little visitor was pleading for food so he threw it a banana. But, in his wildest dreams, he could never have guessed that the pleasing of this particular monkey was about to change his life.

So begins The Legend of Dagad Trikon, an action-packed fantasy, good-versus-evil thriller, that embraces ten thousand years of history. Journeying through Africa, India, Europe and America, it tells of a search for prophecies hidden by the Avathas, an enlightened race who vanished eons ago. Jonathan and his friends find themselves unwittingly on a search for the greatest prize that mankind can attain: the secret to how mankind can transcend the limits of the human mind and evolve to a higher consciousness. Indeed, the book offers a precise and detailed explanation as to how this can happen and posits that this is at the heart of the Holy Grail myth.

$29.95

jacket image - courtesy of Mrs. Nirmala Srivastava cover design by Richard Payment